

LOVE RELATIONSHIP PRAYER

May I recognize that you, my partner, are my first choice to help me open my heart and soul. When I feel differently, may I ask how to return to my essence once again. May I remember to open to your essential needs too. I ask to hold all of this together, even when it is difficult.

May I recognize that when I am closed to you, something has removed me from my source of love. May I open to the source of what is good and sincere. May I recognize that mutual holding of our essential needs is where inspiration, trust, and love, is born. With our different needs, may we develop the courage to treat each other with strength and softness, so that truth and real love can guide us.

May we have the courage to face our differences. May we stay true to our essential souls, and also be dedicated to support each other. May we see this as real love, and see all other feelings and desires for what they are. May I remember these higher, truer, longings are an essential part of my life purpose.
